NEW YORK LETTER

Millions of Dollars Kept Out of Circulation.

PEOPLE HIDING THEIR MONEY

Theatre Managers Notice Falling Off in Business—More Seats Being Bought in Gallery—Ticket Speculators Hard Hit—Reaction Will Soon Set in.

NEW YORK, November 6.—In speaking of aid from the Treasury Department reminds me that Secretary Cortelyou is the recipient just now of a deal of unwarranted praise for his part in the recent panic.

It is high time that the people realized that the Secretary of the Treasury is custodian of the public moneys, and that these moneys in theory and fact belong to the public at large, to be used as required for their benefit. The hoarding of vast sums of money by a government and particularly by a non-military government, such as ours—is a practice that has met with sharp condemnation from political economists the world over. Millions of dollars are thus kept out of circulation; and when there comes a financial crisis (caused in part by the federal hoarding of such large sums) it is the bounden duty of the administration to lend all aid possible to avert a general catastrophe. This Mr. Cortelyou did. He promptly loaned the people's money back to them on gilt-edged security for its repayment. But to read the laudation that he has received therefor, one would fancy that the Secretary of the Treasury had patriotically come to the front and loaned his own funds at a moment and under circumstances, that entailed great personal risk! He simply did his duty, as several of his predecessors have done under similar conditions, and the only praise he merits is for his promptness in meeting a crisis.

The one man who looms big in the after-view of the panic is a financier who has tried to stand for more undeserved a name than any man in America. Had it not been for the quick decision and splendid patriotism of J. P. Morgan in giving and influencing immediate and generous aid to the stricken financial institutions of New York, many of our foremost banks and trust companies might today have been in the position of the Knickerbocker Trust Company. His financial genius is truly Napoleonic and his name at the head of any movement carries more weight than those of a whole covey of ordinary millionaires. Mr. Morgan has made mistakes of judgment in his long and useful career; but of his patriotism and broad philanthropy there can be no shadow of doubt.

A curious result of the panic is that there is more loose money in New York than ever before—more money outside the banks, in wallets, stockings, supposedly secure hiding place, and safe deposit vaults.

At the office of the State Bank Examiner it was estimated that upward of $75,000,000. has been practically taken from the banks of Manhattan. This includes not only the immense sums drawn out by the panic-stricken depositors, but money that would ordinarily have been deposited, but is held by its owners.

The companies doing a strictly safe deposit business have been overwhelmed with applications for strong boxes. Millions of dollars have been packed in these steel vaults to await the time when public confidence in banks and bankers is restored.

Another result of the panic is that small tradesmen are reluctant about accepting checks. They will not cash checks as an accommodation and will not take checks for purchases unless the persons offering them are favorably known.

Still another curious effect has been the direct and instantaneous loss to the theatre. Managers say that at no previous time has there been so much evidence of a connecting link between lower and upper Broadway. The falling off in attendance, while noticeable in the boxes and orchestras, was not felt in the balconies and galleries.

Those who have been hardest hit have been the hotel and sidewalk ticket speculators. One who has thousands of dollars invested in seats for the grand opera seasons of the Metropolitan and Manhattan opera-houses, said yesterday that at this time last year he had disposed of 85 per cent of his stock. This year he has sold barely 35 per cent.

Theatrical men all say that when the financial scare is over a reaction will come and people will be more eager than ever for the diversion of the theatre. This is the opinion of people in all lines of business. And the powers be thanked that the purging process was so quickly accomplished!

WOULD CREATE RESERVE.

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—The Outfit contains an article by Dr. Edward L. Partridge proposing the creation of a national preserve in the highlands of the Hudson, commemorative of the war of the Revolution, and including the old Revolutionary fortifications and land, scattered between Cornwall and Fishkill on the North and Peekskill and Jones Point on the South, besides the West Point military reservation and the Iona Island naval station. The strip would embrace the 27 square miles of woodland on the west bounded by the estate of E. H. Harriman, and 65 square miles on the east of the Hudson.

A Hard Debt to Pay.

"I owe a debt of gratitude that can never be paid off," writes G. S. Clark, of Westfield, Iowa, "for my rescue from death, by Dr. King's New Discovery. Both lungs were so seriously affected that death seemed imminent, when I commenced taking New Discovery. The ominous dry, hacking cough quit before the first bottle was used, and two more bottles made a complete cure." Nothing has ever equalled New Discovery for coughs, colds and all throat and lung complaints. Guaranteed by Charles Rogers & Son, druggists, 50 cents and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

It is a well known fact that persons living in the Pine forests do not suffer from kidney diseases. One dose of Pineules at night usually relieves backache. Thirty days' treatment, $1.00. Your money refunded if not satisfied. Sold by Frank Hart's Drug Store.

PRACTICE PEONAGE

Aliens Are Being Made Slaves in Free America.

GOVERNMENT INVESTIGATING

Cases of Industrial Slavery Astonish Officials—Violations of the Law Will be Vigorously Prosecuted—Report Made on Existing Labor Conditions.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—A comprehensive report on labor conditions in the South with special reference to the practice of peonage in that section of the country and the treatment accorded there to Italian and other alien settlers, has been placed in the hands of the attorney-general by Mary Grace Quackenbush, special assistant attorney-general for the southern district of New York.

Miss Quackenbush was sent South for the purpose of investigating peonage cases in Mississippi, Alabama, the Carolinas and other states, on the allegation that the law was being flagrantly violated. She returned to Washington with an abundance of evidence tending to prove charges made in this connection and criminal cases will be instituted in the courts based on information collected by her.

Miss Quackenbush spent the day in conference with officials of the Department of Justice, amplifying by verbal explanation several matters touched on in her written report.

It is understood that Miss Quackenbush, as well as other officials who have visited the South, are very pessimistic as to the success of the movement that has been started to divert immigration to that section. This view is based upon the scare among aliens by peonage cases in the South. Aliens and negroes, in many instances, were captured on various pretext and held in stockades in a condition bordering on absolute slavery. Another obstacle to immigration to the South, it is pointed out, is the wages paid to laborers and mechanics there.

It is reported that wages in the North are from 10 to 75 per cent higher, and that unless there is a change in the attitude of Southern employers, both in the wages paid and in the treatment of aliens, the government will find it pretty difficult to induce immigrants to go to the southern states.

The general question of immigration is touched upon in passing by Miss Quackenbush, who devotes the major portion of her report to a discussion of peonage cases in the Carolinas, Alabama and Mississippi. It is understood that she advises the attorney-general that conditions are bad in a number of localities, notably in the Sunnyside Colony in Mississippi, which was established for Italians. She reports that it is nothing more or less than a large plantation and that the Italians who live there are very much dissatisfied with their environment.

While Miss Quackenbush declined to talk about her visit to the South, and the officials likewise declined to discuss the contents of her report to the attorney-general, there is reason to believe that she has made a report that is startling in many particulars. The peonage cases discovered in North Carolina by Miss Quackenbush have astounded the authorities. Announcement is made that the cases of violation of law disclosed will be vigorously prosecuted and that every effort will be made by the attorney-general to break up the practice of peonage in the South.

Miss Quackenbush will remain in Washington a day or so conferring with the officials to be placed in immediate charge of the campaign about to be prosecuted as a result of her investigation.

AGAINST MORMONS.

American Party Gains Complete Control of Salt Lake City.

SALT LAKE, Nov. 6.—Through the election of John Bransford as mayor, the general city ticket and a majority of the city council the American party will retain complete control of this city for two years. The victory was won on the issue of Mormon Church domination, the Americans claiming that the other parties were under ecclesiastical control. Bransford received 11,174 votes; Morris, Democrat, 5982; Plummer, Republican, 6340. The council stands: American, 9; Democrats, 4; Republicans, 2. As compared with the county election last year the Democrats gained and the Republicans lost.

Outside of Salt Lake the gains made by the Democrats were notable. In Ogden they elected Alexander Brewer, mayor, and three of the five councilmen; at Provo, the home of Republican Senator Smoot, they elected C. F. Decker, mayor. At Logan, William Edward, Democrat, was elected mayor with the whole of the ticket. The Republicans carried Park City. At Eureka, in the Tintic mining district, the Socialists defeated the Republicans, electing all but one of their ticket, which was headed by A. L. Mitchell, for mayor.

NOT ENOUGH PAY.

Military Academy Officer Says Recruit of Cadets Falls Off.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—The story often told of late of the inadequacy of army pay is repeated with a new variation in the annual report of Col. Hugh L. Scott, superintendent of the military academy. In this case, for the first time in the history of the institution, difficulty has been experienced in securing a sufficient number of cadets to fill the ranks of the corps. Col. Scott says that this corps is now 37 below its authorized strength and the number of resignations from the regular army include ninety of this year's graduates from the academy. Col. Scott says:

"In the matter of trained soldiers the output of the military academy cannot with safety be permitted to fall below the rate of consumption of those who have gone before, plus the increased requirements of a great and growing nation. It is believed that the more lucrative pursuits and greater fields for promotion of private men are diverting young men from these careers of small pay and slow promotion in our country's service."

FRIEND OF JAPAN.

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—Vice-Admiral Coughlan in a speech at a banquet given last night in celebration of the Mikado's 57th birthday, spoke feelingly of the friendship which has so long existed between Japan and the United States, and declared his belief that the Pacific must become a Japanese or America lake.

"America and Japan are hereditary friends," he said among other things. "I became convinced of that 36 years ago, when I first met His Majesty, the Mikado, in his own land. I have not changed my opinion since."

"This mutual friendship is regarded by us as a heritage to be handed down to our children's children. It is this friendship I trust that will make and keep the Pacific a Japanese-American Lake."

NO MORE ARRESTS.

CHICAGO, Nov. 6.—Nobody was implicated in the theft of letters in the John R. Walsh case from District Attorney Sims' office excepting Miss Etta McLean, confidential stenographer, and Alexander B. Gordee. This is the conclusion of Mr. Sims and his secret service operatives. Mr. Sims announced last night that there would be no further arrests. He said the investigation had been concluded, as far as the government was concerned, and indicated that nothing had been learned to justify the implication of anybody excepting Gordee and the stenographer.

LINGERING COLD.

Withstood Other Treatment But Quickly Cured by Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

"Last winter I caught a very severe cold which lingered for weeks," says J. Urquhart, of Zephyr, Ontario. "My cough was very dry and harsh. The local dealer recommended Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and guaranteed it, so I gave it a trial. One small bottle of it cured me. I believe Chamberlain's Cough Remedy to be the best I have ever used." This remedy is for sale by Frank Hart and leading druggists.

FATAL COLLISION

Switchman Killed at Approach to the Steel Bridge.

FOG DIRECT CAUSE OF WRECK

Victim of Accident Was Riding on Engine of Biggs Local and Was Caught Between Edges of Cab and Tender—Coroner Holding Inquest.

PORTLAND, Nov. 6.—Frank W. Glass, aged 45, an O. R. & N. switchman, employed in the local yards, was instantly killed in a head-on collision between the outgoing Biggs local, O. R. & N., No. 8, and the incoming Southern Pacific Overland, No. 16, both passengers, at the east approach of the Steel bridge, at 7:27 o'clock this morning. His death was one of those inexplicable turns of fate that does not happen once in a million times under similar circumstances, for the accident was otherwise not a serious one. Not another person received a scratch, and but very few of the scores of passengers on both trains felt the shock of the impact.

The impenetrable pall of fog that enveloped the city this morning was the direct cause of the wreck, the desire of the crew of the Biggs Local to "steal a switch" was the secondary cause, and if any blame is fixed it is likely to fall on the shoulders of the engineer and firemen of the outbound train.

Had both trains been on time, there would have been no accident.

Glass was caught between the edges of the cab and the tender and fearfully mangled. His left leg was ground to a pulp at the knee, his chest was completely crushed in, and death was probably instantaneous, for he never uttered a groan. He hung suspended and pinned between the cab and tender until a yard engine was hurried from the terminal yards and pulled the tender from the engine.

Engine No. 54, which was hauling the local was badly damaged, while Southern Pacific engine No. 2422, one of the big "hogs," sustained no injuries save for a slight shivering of her pilot. She did not even leave the rails and backed the Overland to the East Morrison street depot, where the passengers disentrained and boarded street cars for town.

When the trains met, the O. R. & N. engine "crawled" up on the Southern Pacific engine, and all wheels save her two rear drivers left the track. Her pilot was smashed to smithereens, and driven far under the forward truck, while the jacket of her boiler-head, of inch-thick steel, was cut out as clean as if it had been done with a knife. Draw-heads and bumpers on both engine and tender were splintered, while the baggage coach was slightly damaged.

Switchman Glass, who was killed, lived at 1136 Maryland avenue, and is survived by the widow and two children, the eldest daughter being married, and her husband, M. H. Bon, is a fireman on the O. R. & N.

Coroner Finley took charge of the remains and is holding an inquest this afternoon.
